

Baltimore Racial Justice Action Presents:

The Racial Politics of Community and Economic Development

Monday, January 13th

6:00–8:00pm

American Brewery Building, 1701 N. Gay St.,
Baltimore, MD 21213

Baltimore is experiencing a “community development” revitalization, but for whose benefit and at whose expense? Does community and economic development have to mean “urban removal?” Does community development have to be a racialized win-lose game, or can it be created with a win-win model? What power do people of color have to save our communities and ourselves so that we are part of the city’s growth instead of viewed as problems. How can white people constructively step into communities of color and share those spaces without appropriating them and destroying those communities? Join us on January 13th as we have community leaders and specialists in various aspects of community development discuss these issues and offer suggestions for community development that works for everyone.

Security-monitored parking available on both sides of the building and in the parking lot across Lanvale St.
